

Andrew Kerr Bio - 2019

Andrew Kerr is a technology executive with 10+ years of diverse experience leading teams, delivering solutions, and helping individuals and organizations to grow and thrive. Possessing a strong passion for leadership development, he annually teaches dozens of classes on diverse topics including change management, managing up, and the power of humility for leaders. His first book, The Humility Imperative: Why the Humble Leader Wins in an Age of Ego, was released in 2017 and led Andrew to be featured on numerous podcasts, blogs, and as a featured speaker across the country for companies including HCA, Cisco, Yahoo Finance, and Scott Madden consulting. He is currently the CEO FortyAU software consulting where he leads an agile team of software developers to deliver custom software solutions for clients in the healthcare, finance, higher education, sports and entertainment industries.

Andrew is a Certified Facilitator from Development Dimensions International (DDI) and is certified to teach the Change Style Indicator (CSI) and Influence Style Indicator (ISI) assessment instruments developed by Discovery Learning, Inc. Andrew is also active in the community, where he serves as the board chair for the Amputee Blade Runners (www.amputeebladerunners.com) and on the board of the National Football Foundation of Middle Tennessee.

Andrew previously served as the Assistant Vice President (AVP) for Parallon Technology Solutions where he directed the efforts of over 150+ consultants to deliver high-priority IT projects for many of the nation's top-healthcare companies. Prior to working at HCA/Parallon, Andrew worked at the Federal Investigative Services Division (FISD) within the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) in Washington, DC. Andrew is a graduate of the Presidential Management Fellows (PMF) program, class of 2003. He holds a Master's degree in Education (M. Ed.) from Vanderbilt University's Peabody College and a B.A. in political science and anthropology from Vanderbilt's college of Arts and Sciences. While at Vanderbilt, Andrew was a four-year walk-on and two-year letterman on the varsity football team earning academic All-SEC honors both his junior and senior year. Andrew and his wife Ashlie have three energetic children and currently reside in Franklin, TN.

You can find him on Twitter @AndrewKerr11 or LinkedIn